America's Heroes: I'm ABC's Fred Thompson. An army chopper providing air cover near Mosul comes under fire. An armored piercing shell rips through the cockpit. Shatters the pilot's left arm. His gunner, Captain Brian Pipkin, immediately takes the controls and flies the pilot to the nearest medical facility. He then takes another helicopter, returns to the fight, and calls in artillery to take out the insurgent machine gun nest. Captain Brian Pipkin, an American he-ro. I'm Fred Thompson. [30 SEC] While our heroes are protecting us, we have a duty to protect them. One company, LifeLock, is doing just that. They developed a service that can prevent identity theft. As a standing policy, LifeLock gives their million-dollar guarantee to protect the good names of our heroes and their families for free. Tell them you're deployed, and they'll have your back, while you have ours. If you're not serving, LifeLock's million-dollar promise can be yours for ten dollars a month. Either way, I urge you to contact LifeLock, at 877-LIFELOCK, or LifeLock.com. [60 SEC]
